PREFACE.

The family of Openshaw is of great antiquity, the first mention of the name occurring in the time of Edward I. (1295), when Robert de Openshagh, Chaplain, witnessed a deed conveying a gift of land from Henry de Ancotes to Alander le Tincture.[1] The next mention is found in "Examynatyons touchoynge Cokeye Mor, temp. Hen. VIII." published in Vol. II. of the Chetham Society's Publications, and referring to a dispute between the Lords of Middleton and Radcliffe.[2]

It has been surmised that the family is of Flemish origin, but if it takes its name from the Shaw or Wood mentioned in the "Examynatyons," it would seem far more probable that it is of Saxon origin.

Parish Registers were first commenced in 1540, those at Bury dating from 1575, and those at Radcliffe from 1558.

The family of Openshaw has been connected with the Woollen Trade for many generations, and as will be seen, has been resident in Radcliffe and Bury parishes for several centuries.

The inclusion of the Ormerod Pedigree, shewing the connection with that family, will, the Editor trusts, be appreciated.

The Authorities consulted in drawing this Genealogy are Dr. Whitaker's History of Whalley, the Chetham Miscellanies, Vol. II. (already referred to), Registers at the Parish Church, Bury, Registers at Radcliffe; the work intituled "Ducatus Lancastriæ," Croston's Baines History of Lancashire, and the memorials erected in the various burial grounds attached to the Parish Church, and St. John's and St. Paul's Churches, Bury, and elsewhere. Many family bibles have also been perused. Strange to say the Registers at Bolton and Middleton contained no information.

The Editor has derived much information from the MSS. of his father-in-law, the late Rev. Thomas Openshaw, and he is also deeply indebted to the many members of the Openshaw Family, who, by willingly supplying information, have greatly assisted in compiling what has been to him a labour of love.

THE OPENSHAW PEDIGREE.

Opynscha of the Schas

Christian name unknown. This shaw or wood is probably what is now known as Moss Shaw between Radcliffe and Elton co. Lancaster. A.D. 1370.

Richard Opynscha

or Opynschay, called also Decon and Rye. It is related of him that "John Radclyff, lord of Radclyff, gaffe lycens vnto oti old Rye Opynscha, y^t was heyr of the Schas, to take a encrochemenli on Cokkey mor and ther to set hys hyrees, and the aforsayd Rye Opynscha occupyeth hyth by the space of XX^t ner." It appears that at this time great quantities of bees were kept on Cockey Moor, and the Rector of Middleton had tithe o' them, as also of all lambs, foals, calves, &c., born on the Moor. Cockey Moor is in the Parish of Radcliffe, co. Lancaster. Born about 1410, and was still living in 1460.

John Opynscha.

Opynschay or Openshawe, "heyr vnto the aforesayd Rye, occupyeth the aforsayd encrochmenli XV^te ner, and deplyd d^t owte yasewo." He seems to have lived on the borders of the moor, and had to pay a fine when his beasts trespassed on the moor. It is related of him that "John Opynschay, that was the sune of Decon Opynschay, desyred George Kirkma apon a tyme to goe to the lord of Modulton to get hym lycens for to take in half a nacro of cokkymore for to secure hys howse from the beste of the Moore that wold rub dowme the wops." Born about 1428, and died without issue about 1480.

. . . . . Opynscha.

Christian name unknown. Born about 1440, and died about 1476.

John Opynscha

or Opynshaw, "beyng heyr and outte off the contre att y^e warres, heyring tell y^e hys grandfether and hys uncull John and hys father wer ded, came into the contre and claymeth hys land, and the aforsayd Jamys wold not suffur hym to occupye yit ne to haue hys dedys, lentyll the tymu he was agreti w^t all; and the aforsayd John gaffe vnto the aforsayd Jamys a peell of money to haue hys lands and deds, and gaff hym lycens to occupye y^e aforesayd encrochmenli and to sett in hys hyrees." The wars spoken of would be either the wars of the Roses or Bosworth Field. In 1509 he was living at Starling, a small handet in the parish of Radcliffe, of which it is said "at ye cornell of the begge hard beyde the howse of John Opynshaw metys iii pieces, y^t is to wit, Modulton pch, Bury pch, and Radcliff pche, so y^t a mi may sett a iii fortyd stole in eury pch a fote." Born about 1470.

James Opynscha

or Openshawe, "dwellyng in Ainsworth, brother of the aforsayd John occupyeth the encrochmenli on cokkymor beyng not heyr by y^e space of iii or iiii ner." In 1509 he occupied an intake of land on Cockey Moor, perhaps the above mentioned "encrochmenli." Ainsworth is in the parish of Middleton, and co. of Lancaster, and adjoins Radcliffe. Born about 1441, and was still living in 1509.

Thomas Openshawe

of Ainsworth, born 1500, married Elizabeth, daughter and co-heiress of Robert Sharples of Sharples, co. Lancaster.

Lamwell Openshall or Openshawe, of Ainsworth. Will dated 21 April, 1607, proved at Chester, 24 June, 1607, married Elizabeth, daughter of . . . . .

James Openshawe

or Openshe, born at Radcliffe about 1546.

Thomas Openshall

or Openshawe, as by will aforesaid.

Marie Openshall

or Openshawe, as by will aforesaid.

Ann Openshall,

or Openshawe, married John Bradleye or Bradley, as by will aforesaid.
